

Domaine Marc Tempé

Haut-Rhin

2007 Riesling Saint-Hippolyte

"Refined and elegant, this ripe Riesling shows flavors of apple jam, passion fruit, orchard blossoms and kumquat, with a hint of honey. There's fine balance, and the well-meshed acidity leaves a mouthwatering impression on the lightly smoked finish."

92 points– Alison Napjus, The Wine Spectator (September, 2011)

2007 Pinot Blanc Zellenberg

"A dry, fleshy Pinot Blanc, displaying hints of anise and lanolin that highlight the white peach, apple and touches of grapefruit peel. This is broad for a Pinot Blanc, delivering tangy acidity and lingering floral and smoke notes on the finish."

90 points– Alison Napjus, The Wine Spectator (September, 2010)

2007 Gewurztraminer Zellenberg

91 points– Alison Napjus, The Wine Spectator (September, 2010)

2006 Pinot Blanc Zellenberg

"This is one of the two or three best Pinot Blancs I've ever tasted from Alsace, which is in turn universally regarded as one of the finest sources for Pinot Blanc in the world. It shows lovely aromatic complexity, real weight and depth on the palate, delicious flavors of ripe pears and baked apples, and a finish that is remarkably bright and clean for a wine from 2006. I showed this at a tasting at a culinary academy alongside some excellent wines including some pricey Rieslings, and this was the consensus winner of the evening. Think that no Pinot Blanc could merit 93 points? Taste this with an open mind--and you'll come away with a changed mind."

93 points– Michael Franz, winereviewonline.com (May 5, 2009)

2006 Rodelsberg

"Very firm and spicy, with excellent precision for a '06 and a gripping, almost tannic impression on the back end accentuated by a brisk lemony character. Fresh, fascinating wine, from very old vines cropped at barely 20 hectoliters per hectare, planted on poor reddish clay soil rich in iron oxide."

90 points– Stephen Tanzer, International Wine Cellar (Nov/Dec 2008)

2005 Rodelsberg

92 points– Alison Napjus, The Wine Spectator (November 15, 2009)